WILL TEST RED SINCERITY: EISENHOWER

About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHY T.

NO COLUMNS for about a week and when a guy's uterus are acting up it's hard to think about creative writing.

Last week they had their seasonal spurt and the of sandpaper got to rubbing against the duodenum and the nausea arose and the nerves came up to see what was going on. And the result was a week feeling and an irritated duo.

I HAVE the oddest strawberry here on my desk. Best way to describe it is that it looks like a red shamrock. Not a tiny red shamrock, either, but a big one. Our postal scales here at the office reveal it weighs exactly two ounces, which is really big for a strawberry. In fact, it's enough for one strawberry shortcake, and I don't know what my life is going to be about sitting there at the table and watching me eat strawberry shortcake.

The berry was found in the strawberry patch of Claud Todd, Galatia. Right now Galatia holds the honors in the Strawberry We Grow 'em Bigger department. Hurray for Galatia!

JOHN BELT, member of the Brown engineering firm, had a problem this week. Too many bees. Or, bees in the wrong place.

Belt was down in Hardin county where there is a road project and a tree was felled as part of the job. The bees apparently were in the tree because the swarm made a bee-line to Belt's automobile, parked nearby. It was quite a ball of bees, and they took refuge in the rear seat.

Now, for some reason or another, John didn't reach back, pick up the ball and throw a curve into the wilderness. Instead, he just stood there and looked, and I guess he thought, "Anyhow, he couldn't think of how to get rid of the bees and he really did want to drive his car back to Harrisburg and not walk."

But about that time the REA came to the rescue. Nope, they didn't run a power line into the back seat but the boys on the Southeastern Illinois Electric Co. cooperative truck said they could get rid of the swarm which they did with a fire extinguisher.

IT DIDN'T HAPPEN HERE: A tipsy man was very vindictive at being arrested. He staggered up to the desk of the sergeant, pounded his fist on it and shouted:

"What I wanna know is why I'm arrested?"

"You were brought in for drink, the sergeant explained.

"Well, that's different — that's fine — let's get started."

Find Stolen Costume Jewelry

The sheriff's office today had quite a collection of costume jewelry found hidden in an old barn at the Harrisburg Ice Co.

An employee found the loot, notified the manager, G. C. Benson, who called the sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff Everett N. Sneed took the jewelry to the sheriff's office and examination revealed that all—or almost all—of it was taken in a burglary at the Leberman home here several weeks ago.

Deputy Sheriff James S. Lyon took four keys in the collection to the Leberman cabin on Wills Lake and found out that they fit locks about the place.

Girl Scouts, Brownies To Parade Friday; Tag Day Saturday

The Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts will have a parade Friday, May 13, beginning at 6 p. m.

The parade will be from the city hall, go east on Locust to Mill, south on Mill to Church, west on Church to Jackson, north on Jackson to Poplar, east on Poplar to the square, around the square and stop on the southwest corner of the court house lawn where a pep meeting will be held around a campfire.

Saturday, beginning at 9 a. m., the Saline County Girl Scout Council will go in full swing for the Tag Day sale. All proceeds of this Tag Day sale will be used for camping and other activities of the Saline county girls.

To Attend Historical Society Convention

Atty. Scerrial Thompson and Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Farley of Harrisburg and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Barnes of Eldorado plan to attend the convention of the Illinois State Historical society at Jacksonville Friday and Saturday.

Disarmament Plan Offered By Soviet Union

Includes Withdrawal Of Occupation Forces From All of Germany

MOSCOW (U)—The Soviet Union published today a mammoth peace proposal including a world disarmament plan it said could "end the Cold War."

Publication coincided with reports in diplomatic circles Soviet Premier Marshal Nikolai Bulganin would agree in principle to an invitation by the West to attend a Big Four meeting "at the summit."

Bulganin was in Warsaw where the Soviet and seven East European nations were expected to set up today an "Eastern NATO" to counter the rearming of West Germany.

The Soviet proposal called for withdrawal of occupation forces from East and West Germany, the setting up of international controls to prevent war preparations and the banning of atomic warfare. It would be fully effective by the end of 1957.

Army Limitations

The declaration, to be presented to the United Nations for adoption, would limit the Soviet, Communist Chinese and U. S. armies to 1,500,000 men each and the armies of Britain and France to 650,000 each. Bases on foreign soil would be dismantled.

It called for settlement of all outstanding world problems including those in the Far East through negotiation and the admission of Red China to the U. N. Security Council. It said adoption of the proposals should be "taken immediately to decrease the international tension and end the cold war."

The proposals were made by Jacob Malik, Soviet representative to the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee in London Tuesday and released today by the official Tass news agency.

Diplomatic circles in London called the move "encouraging" but said it "will require careful examination."

A British Foreign Office spokesman said Russia's statement "appears to take account of a number of proposals which Western delegations to the London meeting" have submitted in recent weeks.

But at the same time Western officials expressed annoyance at Moscow's leak of the proposals—the third major Soviet breach of a secrecy pledge surrounding the London talks.

The plan set up a timetable for reducing armaments.

In 1956 the five major powers, including Communist China, would begin trimming their armed forces toward the 1,500,000 and 650,000 level.

During the first half of 1956 a world disarmament conference would fix the limits of armed forces for other powers "considerably" below the level of the five powers. Disarmament to allowable limits would be completed in 1957.

Bulganin Says German Rearmament Forces Action at Warsaw Conference

WARSAW, Poland (U)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin told a nine-nation Eastern European conference today that German rearmament has forced Communist nations to seek measures to protect their security.

The Soviet premier made his statement in an address before the conference which opened this morning.

In attendance were delegates from the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Albania, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. Communist China attended as an observer.

The conference was planned in Moscow last December when the Soviet bloc decided to set up a mutual security program and establish a unified military command if the West permitted West Germany to rearm.

Fear Air Clash Jeopardizes Prisoner Talks

TOKYO (U)—Diplomatic sources today expressed concern that the battle between U. S. and Chinese Communist planes Tuesday may have jeopardized chances for early Washington-Peking talks and release of American airmen imprisoned in Red China.

They feared the incident would increase tensions in the already explosive Far East.

The U. S. Air Force said that two and possibly three Communist MIGs were shot down by American F86 Sabrejets in the clash off North Korea Tuesday. The announcement said a flight of 12 to 16 MIGs attacked a flight of eight Sabrejets "over international waters" and that the Americans returned the fire.

But Communist China had a different version. It claimed the American planes violated Chinese territory and that the Red planes shot down one U. S. plane and damaged two others.

It was the third aerial clash between Americans and Communists in the same general area in the past 16 months. But it was the first in which Red China admitted its planes were involved.

The diplomatic sources feared that the latest incident will have far greater international impact than any of the others. It was pointed out that it came when tensions appeared to be lessening in the Far East.

Chinese Communist claims to victory in the air battle were quickly knocked down by the Air Force. A spokesman said that all of the eight F86 Sabrejets involved returned safely to their bases.

Asked if any were damaged, he replied, "No serious damage. They may have been hit but there was nothing the Reds could report on anyway."

The Reds made no mention of any Communist losses.

The three American pilots credited with shooting down the MIGs were rushed here from their base in Korea for high-level interrogation. They were identified as Capt. R. V. Fulton, Barnardsville, N. J.; Lt. B. C. Phythyon, Ohio, and Lt. J. E. McInerney, Garden City, N. Y.

.66 Inch Rainfall

Harrisburg rainfall yesterday measured .66 inch, Harrison Kibler reported from the Pankey Branch pumping station. The fall at Galatia was .56 inch.

Million Dollar Rains Fall in Texas, Oklahoma

May Cold Wave Threatens Frost in Northern Midwest

By United Press

The organized prayers of drought-stricken Texans and Oklahomans were answered today with million-dollar rains.

The downpours were laced with winds and storms which were blamed for at least six deaths in Texas alone. But they seemed like an answer from heaven to dust-plagued farmers.

Meanwhile a May cold wave threatened the northern Midwest with frost and moved in on 90-degree temperatures in the South-east.

The townspeople of Lampasas, Tex., and Hobart, Okla., had organized "prayers for rain" and mass demonstrations of faith that rains would come in hopes of ending weeks of crop-baking drought.

Prayers Answered

The rains came to Lampasas Tuesday after radio station KCYL organized its "prayers for rain" day. All regular commercial programs had been cancelled while ministers and laymen took turns praying.

A steady rain began falling at noon. In Lampasas there was .55 of an inch by late Tuesday night. As much as an inch and a half pelted the surrounding county and 2.75 inches swelled the nearby Colorado River.

Prayers of thanks were broadcast over the radio station.

At Hobart, plagued by a three-year drought, upwards of 1,000 persons wore raincoats and carried umbrellas under cloudless skies last Saturday to demonstrate their faith that it would rain.

Sure enough, the rains started Saturday night. Hobart has since had an inch and a half of rain.

The rains which began in Texas Sunday have been worth literally millions of dollars. Wide areas in the state's central, north, and western sections received thorough dousings.

Death Toll

But they also took their toll in lives. At Paducah, Tex., a man and three women were killed when their private plane lost a wing in a thunderstorm and crashed.

Near Amarillo, a man was killed in a fire apparently sparked by lightning and a truckdriver was killed in a crash on a rain-slicked road near Dallas.

Tornado funnels were sighted near Big Spring, Sundown, and Ropesville in Texas, and near Hobart and Cozart in Oklahoma. But no damage was reported. Another, unconfirmed, twister was spotted near Altoona, Pa.

Early today light rain and drizzle extended from Pennsylvania southwest along the Ohio River Valley into parts of Arkansas, Missouri, and Texas. Temperatures dropped deep into the 30's in northern Indiana and lower Michigan.

Death Takes George Wesley Edwards, 84; Funeral Thursday

George Wesley Edwards, 84, a retired farmer and coal miner, died yesterday at 2:15 p. m. in the Harrisburg hospital. Death was due from the past year and a half, Mrs. Walter Wirth, Mrs. James A. Walker, and Mrs. Dave Bowen, all of Harrisburg, and George H. Edwards, Hammond, Ind. He was preceded in death by three children who died in infancy.

Also surviving are two brothers, Dave Edwards, Harrisburg, and Philip Edwards, Marion; 14 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

The body now lies in state at the Gaskins funeral home where the funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. Rev. Joe Morrison will officiate, and burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Scouts to Hold Periodic Paper Drive

Scouts of Troop 23 plan to continue their paper drive, making collections every three or four months, and urge people to keep their old newspapers, magazines and other paper for them.

These scouts on April 23 and 30 collected six and a half tons of paper and today expressed their appreciation to the general public for the effort put in giving their old paper to the boys.

Bill to Require 3-Year Residence For Relief Assistance is Killed in House

SPRINGFIELD (U)—The Illinois House today killed—despite Gov. William G. Stratton's report—a bill to lengthen residency requirements for poor relief applicants.

Sponsors of the bill, which would require public aid recipients to have at least three rather than one year Illinois residence, tried to get the House to override an unfavorable committee vote, but failed, 75-53.

The House Public Aid Committee turned thumbs down on the bill by a 15-6 vote Tuesday and sent it back to the floor with the "do not pass" tag.

Garrett W. Keaster, executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, testified in favor of the bill, which had the two top administration House floor leaders among its sponsors.

Keaster said the bill could save the state 10 million dollars in the next two years. He said a study showed that about 23 per cent of the new public aid cases in Chicago in January and February had lived in the state less than three years.

Committee Approves Funds

Keaster said some 73 per cent of these new cases came to Illinois from nine southern states which have the lowest rate of public aid.

He said the figures show a southern migration of those eligible for higher Illinois aid.

The Rev. Joseph Higgins, of the Church of the Epiphany of Chicago, and representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, and several private welfare agencies, said the bill would throw an impossible burden on civic and private charities.

In other legislative action: The House Appropriations Committee approved a $50,000 appropriation for a proposed equality of employment opportunity commission, a total of $19,187,789 for state colleges and universities; $262,596,000 for the Public Aid Commission; and $118,940,272 to operate the Department of Public Welfare and the state's mental hospitals.

The House Education Committee favored a bill permitting school districts with junior colleges to claim $200 per pupil from the common school fund for each college pupil.

The House Motor Vehicles Committee recommended passage of a bill to increase the state police force from 500 men to 600.

The House Liquor Regulation Committee recommended passage of a bill to allow local liquor control commissioners to suspend liquor licenses for periods of 30, 60 and 90 days.

Approve SIU Funds

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $14,677,425 operating budget for 1955-57 for Southern Illinois university; and a $5,425,000 capital improvements budget for the school. Another million dollars was reappropriated from the 1953-55 building budget.

The House also passed bills requiring non-political sample ballots be used in teaching school children how to vote; and requiring that when insurance is sold to an auto owner, the owner must be made aware whether his insurance includes liability protection.

Rites Thursday at Stonefort For Mrs. W. F. Johnson, 86

Funeral services for Mrs. Missouri Jane Johnson, 86, known to her friends as Zou, who passed away yesterday at 6:15 a. m. at the Tyler Nursing home in Murphyboro where she had been for one week, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Stonefort Methodist church where she was a member.

Rev. Polly Joyner Weeks of Springfield, Mo., will officiate, and burial will be in Trammel cemetery.

She was born June 15, 1869, to L. C. and Mary Tenninger in Stonefort. In 1889 she married W. F. Johnson, who passed away two years ago. Mrs. Johnson belonged to the Rebekah lodge and the Royal Neighbors.

House to Probe Excessive Defense Profits

WASHINGTON (U)—The House Appropriations committee disclosed today it is investigating what a key member charged are "excessively high profits" on multi-billion-dollar defense contracts.

Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of an appropriations subcommittee handling defense funds, told the House the inquiry was ordered because the taxpayer has been "losing his shirt" on non-competitive military buying in which the seller is guaranteed a "very profitable" return.

He charged that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, although a "genius" at business and management, has done nothing to bring defense procurement costs down to reasonable levels.

"He of all people is best equipped to do this job but he has not done it," Mahon told the House.

Another top-ranking member of the appropriations group, Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) contended that Wilson had made "great progress" in correcting "gross waste and extravagance" in defense.

"The people of the country owe a debt of gratitude to Secretary Wilson and to his associates for the progress they are making toward efficiency and economy, and toward greater defense for less money," Wigglesworth told the House.

Debate Military Funds

Mahon made his charges in opening debate on a $31,488,206,000 bill carrying funds to run the Army, Navy and Air Force in the 12 months starting July 1. He said there is no prospect that defense costs will come down soon, but that indications are they will rise even further.

He said contracts totalling almost 100 billion dollars were let by defense in the last three-year period for which reports have been issued—July, 1950, to June, 1953. On a dollar basis, he said only 15 per cent of the contracts were let on a competitive bid basis, the rest being "negotiated."

"That is where the taxpayer is losing his shirt," he said, "and industry is reaping an unreasonably high enrichment."

He said one airplane company, selling almost solely to the Defense Department, chalked up in 1954 net profits 242 per cent greater than it enjoyed in 1950.

He said this "guaranteed profit," while only about 3.7 per cent of sales, was about 45 per cent of net worth.

The firm's stock jumped from a high of $14 in 1950 to about $81 in 1954, or by about 478 per cent.

He said "there are numerous examples of this type."

Warns Against Expecting Too Much by Parley

Proposed Meeting, Vaccine Dominate News Conference

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower said today he favors a top level Big Four conference to test the sincerity of Russia's announced desire to relieve world tensions.

But he said he does not expect the proposed meeting to turn the world around in a few days.

The President told his news conference he expected the most important achievement of the planned chiefs of states meeting would be to define the areas in which foreign ministers could carry on in a search for agreements which would promote world peace.

The United States, Britain and France Tuesday invited Russia to a Big Four conference which would begin with talks on the president's present level and continue with detailed negotiations by foreign ministers. Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, who previously had expressed a desire for such a meeting, said today his government will study the Western invitation carefully.

Sense the Atmosphere

Mr. Eisenhower, who previously had been cool to the idea of a top level conference told reporters he agreed to issue the invitation because there is a growing feeling in the world that such talks might do some good.

While he warned against expecting too much, he said at least the meeting would offer a personal opportunity to sense the atmosphere and get some idea of an area in which foreign ministers could start to work.

The proposed Big Four meeting and the polio vaccine program dominated the President's meeting with reporters.

He conceded that under great public pressure the government probably released the Salk polio vaccine for distribution too quickly. The inoculation program has now been halted temporarily for a check of safety precautions in the manufacture of the vaccine.

Faith in Vaccine

But Mr. Eisenhower reiterated his faith in the effectiveness of the vaccine when properly prepared. He said he believes implicitly that within a measurable time the vaccine will eliminate infantile paralysis.

He said government medical experts displayed proper caution in halting injections while additional safety checks are made. He said some of the trouble may have arisen from efforts to speed up production. He said the manufacturers probably used the regular safety tests but that the exhaustive tests which they now feel necessary.

Mr. Eisenhower repeated his pledge of last week that no child will be denied the vaccine for inability to pay. He didn't have the details worked out. But he said sternly that such a situation arose he would move as hard as he could and make someone listen to him before ever admitting defeat on that matter.

In response to other questions, he said:

Strikes: He is gratified at ending of the long Louisville and Nashville Railroad strike, and will be just as happy when the Southern Bell Telephone Co. strike is settled.

Second Term: He hasn't the slightest idea, he said with a grin, when Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) got the idea, which she voiced at a Republican women's meeting today, that he doesn't want to run for re-election in 1956.

Hamburgers: He defended the Navy against a Hoover commission criticism that it has piled up a 60 year supply of canned hamburgers. He emphasized that the vast store of hamburgers is kept for emergency and suggested that if ammunition were limited to a one-year supply the country's defense would be in a bad way.

Congress: He believes his legislative program is coming along very well but it would be foolish to predict at this time what the final score will be. He said Congress is erratic in its output, sometimes seeming to do nothing for a while and then turning out a lot of work in one week.

Statehood: He favors separating Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills and submitting each on its own merits instead of in a joint bill such as that rejected in the House Tuesday.

Grant Confessed Slayer Change of Venue

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (U)—A change of venue to Gibson Circuit Court at Princeton was granted Tuesday for the first degree murder trial of Leslie Irvin, 31, Evansville, confessed slayer of six persons.

Transfer of the case from Vanderburgh Circuit Court was ordered by Judge Ollie C. Reeves at the request of Robert Hayes, Evansville defense attorney. Hayes cited local prejudice.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: GOP
Gov. Knight of California woos and wows Democratic labor leaders; AFL lunches and dines with Republican governors; both Knight and labor don't like Nixon.

WASHINGTON—Governor Goodwin Knight of California, Republican, once a darling of California big business, did an interesting thing while in the east for the Governors' conference last week.

He spent his time not in kowtowing to the White House or to various senators or to other governors. He spent a good part of his time making friends where the Republicans badly need friends—with labor. He had a breakfast, a dinner, and a lunch with the top labor leaders in the capital, then went to Philadelphia for a meeting with the labor leaders of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

Furthermore, he wooed 'em.
Remarkable Dick Grey, head of the Building and Construction Trades Union: "Here's a man that could well run for president."

While Grey has supported Republicans in the past—though dead against Eisenhower—other life-long Democratic labor leaders seemed highly impressed with the Republican governor of California. Among them was Joe McComb of the Retail Clerks Local 1360 of Camden, N. J., also director of the combined AFL-CIO Political League for New Jersey.

"Why can't we have some good Republicans like this?" he remarked. And he fingered his rosary while having his picture taken with the governor, hoping, he said, that it was not just a dream.

Earlier in the week Governor Knight lunched at the White House with Sherman Adams, the man who really runs things in the Eisenhower administration. Adams looks down his nose at most people who don't come from New England, and Knight was no exception. Adams acted as if the governor, who is a great story teller, were a sort of Republican Al Jolson from California.

"Where did you study law?" Adams asked.
"At Stanford and Cornell."
"Where did you live at Cornell?"
"At the Alpha Delta Phi house."
Gradually the governor of California appeared to be more acceptable to the ex-governor of New Hampshire who now runs the White House.

"How did you get such a big majority when you ran in California?" Adams asked.
"I got the endorsement of labor," and Knight went on to tell how the top labor leaders not only endorsed him but raised money for his campaign. He indicated that other Republicans who wanted to win might well follow his example.

Governor Knight did not, however, go into detail regarding his highly significant labor conferences in Washington. If he had, Adams' friend, Vice President Richard Nixon, another Californian, might have had a fit.

BECK TO SCHNITZLER
For Knight had dinner with Bill Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor,
the No. 2 man to President George Meany. He also breakfasted with Jim McDevitt, head of the AFL Labor League for Political Rights.
And he drove to Philadelphia in the car of Jim Sufbridge, secretary of the Retail Clerks. Finally he had an hour's conference with Dave Beck, head of the Teamsters' union, in the latter's shiny new office in the Teamsters' gleaming marble Taj Mahal built right under the nose of Congress.

The Washington lunch with Knight was attended by about twenty of the top AFL brass, including Dick Grey, Scott Milne, head of the Electrical Workers, Bill Mc-Fetridge, head of Building Services (janitors, elevator operators);
Vernon Housewright, head of the Retail Clerks; Jim Sufbridge, also of the Retail Clerks; Jim Brownlow and Bob Gridda, both of the Metal Trades; John Sweeney of the West Coast Teamsters; Bill Griffen of the Miscellaneous Division of Teamsters; William Deo of the Building Trades.

One question labor leaders were emphatic about: what that they would not have any part of the Republican ticket if Nixon was on it, either as president or vice president. The one heart-beat separating the vice president from the president, they said, was too uncertain, especially when the President is well over sixty.

Governor Knight was surprisingly frank in his views on Nixon during the Washington luncheon. He made it clear that some top California political leaders share labor's view on Nixon and that Nixon would not control a single vote in the California delegation at the Republican convention in 1956.

RIGHT-TO-WORK BILL
In Philadelphia, where about fifty labor leaders met with Governor Knight was noncommittal about the Warwick hotel, Governor
Knight was noncommittal about

Nixon. But he was emphatic in his opposition to the right-to-work
bill in California.

"If they manage to get the bill
on the ballot under that deceptive name," he promised, "I will stump
the stage against it."

He referred to the fact that the so-called "right-to-work" bill is actually aimed at preventing a union shop.

The governor was also emphatic in favoring increased unemployment compensation and modification of the California Jurisdictional Act which recognizes phony unions. He was also for rigorous enforcement of the Walsh-Healy Act.

Those who met with him in Philadelphia included labor's top brass from Atlantic City, Camden, N. J., and Reading, (Pa.) with Al Savan,
president, and Norman Blomberg, business manager of Philadelphia's Central Labor Union Council; Joe McDonough, president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor;
Jack Backus, chairman of the Teamsters Joint Council; Bud
Lavin, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council; Ed Hartsou, also of the Teamsters; Bill Ross of the International Ladies Garment Workers; and Harry Finks of the Los Angeles
Central Labor Union Council.

Note 1—Governor Knight also held an interesting meeting with labor leaders in Seattle and will hold another in Chicago in about a month.

Note 2—Few Republican candidates had labor endorsement in the last election. Knight and Paterson of Oregon did, and won.
Governor Hall of Kansas was friendly to labor. The Democrats, who for the most part got sweeping labor endorsements, picked up seven new governorships last November.

HTHS Junior Wins VFW Auxiliary Essay Contest 'What Civil Defense Means to Me'

Bill Cole, junior at the Harrisburg Township high school, recently was awarded first place in an essay contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. The subject was "What Civil Defense Means to Me."

Mary Matthews and Marilyn Geltosky also were winners in the contest, placing second and third. The students will receive cash awards of $15, $10 and $5 which will be presented at the high school on Monday, May 16, by Wilma Ashe, essay chairman.

Bill's essay will be entered in the state contest at Peoria in June, and the state winner will be sent to the national contest.

His essay is as follows:
As I sat and watched the vapor trail of a jet plane flying too high to see, move slowly across the sky,
I thought what if that were an enemy bomber with an atom or hydrogen bomb heading for St.
Louis or Joppa, and if it were unable to make it; so the bomb would be dropped fairly close by. What would I do to stay alive? That is what Civil Defense teaches, if you would but join the organization and learn.

I tried to imagine what would happen if a fleet of one-hundred bombers should come in on our coast at different points. They might be picked up by radar from submarines, ships, or airplanes, or the radar on the coast within fifty miles of the plane's path, but if the radar installations were far apart, it is easy for a plane to fly under the radar net. Undoubtedly, some would be picked up by radar, and the Air Force would send jet interceptors to shoot them down, and our anti-aircraft batteries would get some of them, but the fact remains that we could hope to get hardly more than thirty per cent of them. Perhaps we think we should get more protection from the Air Force. In the last war, Hitler's forces with all their Luftwaffe and anti-aircraft guns shot down only about ten per cent of the Allied planes sent against them to bomb Germany.

So we can be quite sure a number of the planes would get further than our coasts. Then the Ground Observer Corps would spot some of the planes and report them for interception. It takes two reports to tell exactly where the plane is going and how fast the plane is traveling. But in the bomber, minutes are miles, and it takes minutes between the two reports. So we can't get around the fact that no matter how hard we try that some of those bombers are going to reach their targets.

All this boils down to one thing:
We must know what and how to do after an atomic attack. This is where Civil Defense comes in.
While the armed forces were trying to stop the planes, the civilians would be alerted by air raid sirens with a three minute wailing or by radio and television.

A main Civil Defense teaching is to find shelter quickly in the case of an attack. Being on the outside and seeing the flash, I would have quickly gotten behind a tree, wall, or in a gully and buried my face in my arms in case any flying objects landed on me.
If I were in a house at the time,
I would get away from the windows and under a heavy table or divan or any protection possible.
However, some people don't like to think of just trusting to their luck in an attack, so they have shelters built in their basements.
There are three types of shelters recommended by Civil Defense experts. One, a lean-to shelter, can be built by any handy man with about $40.00 worth of material, and another low-cost shelter, the "corner room" box type, which would provide shelter for people not far from the blast, is satisfactory. Because of the fire hazard, the basement, with exits, is the best. This kind, usually made of concrete or cinder blocks, allows occupants to get out in case of fire or damaged utilities.

When the all clear signal is heard, three one-minute blasts with two minutes silence between them,
the air raid is over. The different Civil Defense groups' jobs have just begun. The fire warden and his groups would be going into action just after an attack, using simple and practical measures to help householders extinguish small fires or helping the regular firemen whenever needed. The rescue warden and his men would be getting people out from under the rubble of buildings knocked over by the shock wave. The first aid stations would be giving help to injured people as well as the evacuation

Bill Cole

trucks which have brought food and clothing for the homeless and would pick up the people who would be evacuated to a safer place. The drivers and men of the evacuation group would also keep the evacuees in touch with their friends and relatives who stayed in the neighborhood.

After the attack, two good survival maxims are: "Keep clean,"
and "Watch your food and water."
Don't help germs by making it easy for them. Germs have trouble living in clean places, and people who keep clean are less likely to become sick. Don't take chances with open food containers after an attack. Bottled or canned foods are all right if the containers are not broken.

Now that my imaginary air raid is over, people have gone back to their jobs turning out the material that keeps our armed forces fighting. As I look up at the sky, the jet plane has long since been gone down below the horizon, but the white vapor trail is still there.
This made me think of the people who say that if there is another world war, nations will be destroyed, but I believe that after the smoke and rubble have cleared away the United States, like the vapor trail of the jet plane, will still be here.

Judge Trafton Dennis Discusses 5th Amendment At Rotary Meeting

County Judge Trafton Dennis spoke at the weekly noon meeting of the Rotary club Monday, discussing the 5th Amendment of the Constitution and its legal aspects.

Judge Dennis pointed out to fellow Rotarians the necessity of having such a law in the land to protect the rights and privileges of each citizen. He gave some excellent reviews of its just uses and presented an informative discussion of the judiciary background of such a law.

Senator Glen O. Jones will speak to the group next Monday.

Dorcas Class Meets at Cannon Home

The Dorcas Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jesse Cannon, 600 West Parish street.

Mrs. Versa Hettterscheidt, vice president, was in charge of the business session, and Mrs. J. C. Oshel gave the devotion. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Otis Reynolds Sr. and Mrs. Rufus Wells.

Following the business and devotional periods a social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Hettterscheidt to those mentioned and Mrs. Helen McDonald, Mrs. John Upchurch, Mrs. Merman Thomas, Mrs. Zora Pyle and Mrs. Elmer Gibbons, class teacher.

Columbus' voyages to the New World were in 1492, 1493 and 1494 (same voyage), 1498 and 1502.

McKinley Junior B. W. C. Has Royal Service Program

"Up and Down the City Streets" was the title of the Royal Service program presented by members of the Junior Business Women's circle of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church at a meeting held Tuesday evening.

Miss Raenelle Lavender entertained the group at her home on South Main street, and Mrs. Denzil Simpson was in charge of the program.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Miss Norma Cannon, and she and Mrs. Joe Harris, Miss Jewell Agin and Miss Jane Cannon assisted Mrs. Simpson in giving topics. It was stated that sixty-four per cent of the nation's population, multitudes of whom live in the cities of the United States, and some of the work being done through the City Mission program of Southern Baptists' Home Mission Board was discussed. Mrs. Henry Short, adviser, led in the closing prayer.

Miss Lavender, chairman, conducted the business session, and following the evening's program served refreshments to the group.

Women's Fellowship Of First Christian Church Meets

The Christian Women's Fellowship held its May meeting at the home of Mrs. Carrie Young, 317 West Raymond.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Ethel Boatright. Mrs. Roy Adams presided over the business meeting and the officers chosen to serve the ensuing year are as follows: Miss Bess Pemberton, president; Mrs. Frank Gray, vice president; Mrs. Frelan Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Harold Boatright, secretary.

These officers will be installed at the June meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Frelan Smith, 1200 South Main.

Mrs. Clyde Lightfoot gave the devotion "Such as Their Faith" using Matt. 6:19-21. Mrs. Carl Corrie was in charge of the lesson entitled "New Hope Through Life" with emphasis on the family life and Christian home in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Leta Hamby, Mrs. Roy Adams, Mrs. Carl Corrie, Mrs. Frelan Smith, Mrs. Clyde Lightfoot, Mrs. Harold Boatright, Miss Bess Pemberton and the hostess.

Calendar Of Meetings

U. S. to Permit Visit by Group of Russian Farmers

WASHINGTON — The United States said today it is ready to let Russia send an "official delegation" of agricultural representatives to this country to study American farming methods, probably this summer.

As an "official delegation" the Russians will not have to be fingerprinted. Immigration laws require fingerprinting of non-official visitors. This requirement caused collapse of an earlier plan for a group of Soviet student editors to visit the United States. They balked at the fingerprinting.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said the United States plans to send an "unofficial group" of American farmers to Russia.

Eisenhower Buys First
Ligion Auxiliary Poppy
WASHINGTON — President
Eisenhower helped launch the American Legion Auxiliary poppy drive today. He perceived the first one from Mrs. Percy A. Lainsford, Fort Madison, Iowa, auxiliary president.

Mrs. Lainsford pinned a poppy to the President's lapel and he pressed a $5 bill into her hand.
She also presented a poppy corsage for Mrs. Eisenhower and a dish, first of a set of naval print plates which the auxiliary is giving to the Eisenhower home at Gettysburg, Pa.
"The poppies given to President and Mrs. Eisenhower were made by disabled veterans in the veterans hospital at Marion, Ind.
Kentucky, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Virginia are commonwealths."

Girl, 3, is Killed By Truck in Driveway

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)—Three-year-old Debra Frank was killed Tuesday when a truck backed over her while she was standing in a driveway, police said.

The truck driver, Richard Soda, 38, McHenry, was charged with reckless homicide and reckless driving.

The "pit of eternal fire" is the crater of the volcano Kilauea, in Hawaii.

In one year, 1860-61, eleven states seceded from the Union.

A 3-C CECIL R. RABOURN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Rabourn, 102 East Furlong street, Carrier Mills. A 3-c Rabourn has completed basic air force training at Lackland AFB, Texas, and arrived home Friday to spend a 10-day leave with relatives and friends in Carrier Mills. He has been assigned to the Radio Traffic Analysis School, as an Intelligence Technician, at Kelly Air Force Field, San Antonio, Texas. He entered military service Feb. 10.

REA Celebrates 20th Birthday; Review Benefits

Editor's Note: The Rural Electrification Administration, created May 11, 1935, by an executive order of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, today celebrates its 20th birthday. The REA program was begun when only 1 farm in 10 had electric service. Now 9 out of 10 farm homes have it. In the following dispatch, REA Administrator Ancher Nelsen, former Republican lieutenant governor of Minnesota, surveys the future of the program.

By ANCHER NELSEN
REA Administrator
Written for United Press
WASHINGTON (UP)—The benefits of REA to the farmer have only begun.

Without electricity, farmers would be completely unable to meet the demands made upon them. The modern farm, with its pressure water system, its electrical dairying and poultry raising equipment, its hay driers, feed grinders, its workshop to keep machinery in repair, would almost stop functioning if it were not for the power that flows over REA lines.

But we have as yet taken only a few steps into the atomic age—we cannot conceive of the possibilities there for obtaining electric power in greater quantities, at lower cost, than was ever dreamed possible.

In my mind there is no question but what the next 20 years holds greater promise for American farmers than the past 20 years has fulfilled.

The 20th anniversary of REA is a good time for us to bring to the attention of the whole country the vital importance of this program in our economy.

Without electric power, farmers could not feed our country.

Our farm young people today are to a great extent preparing themselves to remain on the farm, rather than looking forward to the time when they can get away to live in the cities. I don't think anyone questions that it is electric power which is changing their point of view.

And while this 20th anniversary of REA finds more than 90 per cent of our farms with the blessings of electricity, we have still a further obligation. That is to explore the possibilities of new and greater ways of putting this power to work for us.

Blind Student is Arrested for Drunken Driving

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Police arrested a blind honor student of the University of Tennessee for drunken driving.

Police jailed blind Edgar Lee Edens of Nashville, Tenn., as the intoxicated driver and also jailed Robert P. Matheny, a fraternity brother of Montague, Mich., as Edens' intoxicated "seeing eye."

Officers who first spotted their car weaving down the street early Tuesday said Edens was under the wheel, feeding the gas and "definitely driving the car" although Matheny was helping him steer.

After they were jailed, police said the students escaped "for a cup of coffee" by lifting keys from the jailer's belt and afterward returned by a side door and locked themselves in another cell.

Police said their return after visiting a nearby restaurant was Edens' second voluntary confinement within a few hours. He made bond but demanded to be jailed anyway because Matheny could not make bond.

The grateful Matheny praised Edens by saying, "He gets around."

1954 Unemployment Benefits a Record

CHICAGO (AP)—A record $2 billion was paid in unemployment benefits in 1954, according to the Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law.

Since 1949, the report said, the average weekly benefit paid to jobless workers has increased from $20.50 to the 1954 peak of $25.

The number of workers covered by state unemployment insurance laws has grown in this period by more than 3,500,000.

Already this year, 14 states have made significant changes in their unemployment compensation laws. New tax rates, expanded coverage and higher benefits were among the revisions enacted.

Unemployment compensation amendments are pending in some 30 states at present. Plans to compensate workers for sickness and disabilities not connected with employment await action in Arizona, Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Oklahoma and Utah.

By next year, 1,400,000 employees of establishments with four or more employees will come under

Mrs. Freeman Pankey President Woman's Club

Mrs. Freeman Pankey was installed Monday evening as president of the Carrier Mills Woman's club, at a meeting held at the Masonic temple at Carrier Mills. Mrs. Roy Milburn, president of the 24th district, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, conducted the installation of officers, which ended with a solo by Mrs. Roy Seel, Ozark, who is district historian, and who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Dolores Wallace, Harrisburg.

Other officers installed were Mrs. Harry Lifen, first vice-president; Mrs. Loren Dallas second vice-president; Mrs. George Whitney, recording secretary; Mrs. Warren Jennings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Hugh Miller, treasurer.

Miss Wallace also played accompaniment for the Rebekah Lodge No. 12, composed of Mrs. Don Travelstead, Mrs. Herman Chaney, and Mrs. Claud Moake, by which three numbers were sung.

The program chairman for the evening, Mrs. Gus McDonald, presented Miss Kathryn Rice, Harrisburg Township high school art teacher, who spoke of the ten greatest paintings in art history, and showed paintings of some of them, bringing out details of the paintings which might not be known or noticed without special study.

Mrs. J. L. Miller, district parliamentarian, and Mrs. C. C. Porter, district first vice-president, were also present, to extend best wishes to the new officers of this club, which they and Mrs. Milburn helped to organize.

Miss Carrie Wasson, retiring president, was presented by the club, with a IFWC Past President's pin, the presentation being made by Mrs. Pankey.

Mrs. Pankey announced that she will name appointive officers at the June meeting of the club.

Ice cream sodas were served.

DEATH OF A LEGEND

By WILL HENRY

THE STORY: At the robbery of the Gallatin bank, Jesse murders the cashier. Later he stops a traveler on the road and claims to be the brother of Bill Anderson. The bank cashier was an ex-cavalryman and Bill Anderson was shot by a cavalryman during the Civil War.

Behind the Daviess County sheriff, a scant three days, came the Pinkertons. Their reception by the Clay County sheriff is best put in the words of William Pinkerton in a subsequent address to a Chicago convention of peace officers.

"When I asked the assistance of the officers in arresting a part of the James gang, he said that he would deputize me and aid me secretly, but owing to the relatives and sympathizers of these men residing in the county, he dared not lend a hand openly. He said that I did not have to live there after the arrest had been made but that he did."

The trail breaks. The tracks fade. And the summer sun shines brightly on the public square of Corydon, Iowa, June 3, 1871.

The clerk in the County Treasurer's Office looked up to greet the three men and the six large-caliber revolvers.

"No noise now, sonny," requested one of his visitors pleasantly. He was a tall man, the clerk remembered, and had a smile that lit up his whole face with kindly good humor. "We're tax collectors, too, you see, and would like to relieve your office of the burden of counting all those county receipts in the safe yonder."

The clerk backed away, white-faced, his desperate gesture going to the locked safe.

Why don't you try the Obocock Brothers Bank down the street, gentlemen?" he asked pleadingly. "It just opened this very morning."

The Obocock Brothers Bank occupies a unique niche in America's hall of banking fame—it closed two hours after it opened. Its contribution to the wheatsack was $45,000 in cash.

At the door, and grinningly, the bandits stood aside for the new bank's first legitimate customer. The Rev. Moseman Jones was the ordained shepherd of Corydon's Negro Baptist flock. "I beg your pardon, gentlemen. Can you tell me where I may deposit my savings?"

The smaller of his listeners produced two .44 caliber Colts and jammed them into the terrified minister's stomach. His tall companion stepped forward, bowed graciously, opened the bulging wheat sack. "Right in here, Uncle," he directed politely.

Down in the square, the Hon. H. Clay Dean was booming to his climax. Neither he nor his spellbound audience noticed the jogging approach of the seven horsemen. One of the riders was a smallish man with a heavy beard of sandy hue. Standing in his stirrups, he waved to Dean across the heads of the crowd.

"A point, sir. If you please—" "We yield to the gentleman on horseback!" He returned the interrupting wave regally. "Your question, my young friend?"

"Well, sir," the bearded rider called soberly. "Some fellows were just down to the bank and tied up the cashier. All the drawers are cleaned out and I reckon somebody had best get down there in a hurry."

Pirates Beat Braves, 9-6, With Grand-Slam Homer; Cardinals Trip Phillies, 5-3

By United Press
By far the proudest guy in baseball today was George Freese of the Pirates, who neither rooms with his kid brother, Gene, nor runs around with him, but openly roots for him with a passion that surpasses even brotherly love.

The 28-year-old George had a grin on his face a mile wide when 21-year-old Gene bashed his first major league grand slam homer Tuesday night in an eight-run eighth inning that powered Pittsburgh to a 9-6 victory over Milwaukee.

Actually, big brother Freese's bases-loaded single in the eighth drove home the two runs that put the Pirates ahead but George was only interested in Gene's subsequent wallop which moved Pittsburgh to within four percentage points of the first division.

"My only concern is Gene," says the husky George quietly. "Whether I make it or not doesn't bother me so much, but I'd give anything in the world to see him come through."

"After all," the older Freese grins, "if he makes it and I don't, he can always get me passes to the ball games."

George Needn't Worry
From the way it looks, however, George needn't worry because he and Gene, who is only putting in his third year in professional baseball, both loom large in Pittsburgh's plans.

While the Pirates' fortunes seem on the way up, the Phillies' fortunes continue to go down. Mayo Smith's charges dropped their 10th straight game when they were beaten, 5-3, by the Cardinals on Bill Virdon's 10th inning homer. Rookie southpaw Luis Arroyo limited the Phils to five hits, including a homer by Del Ennis, in snapping St. Louis' seven-game losing streak.

Brooklyn kept rolling along with its 22nd victory in 24 starts as big Don Newcombe faced only 27 men and pitched a one-hitter in beating the Cubs, 3-0. The shutout was the first for Newcombe since Sept. 29, 1951 and ran his lifetime record over Chicago to 11-0. Duke Snider's ninth homer in the sixth inning was all the margin Newcombe needed. Gene Baker's fourth inning single was the only hit off Newcombe but Baker was erased stealing.

Two homers by Willie Mays and another by Hank Thompson helped the Giants beat the Redlegs, 8-4. Southpaw Johnny Antonelli recorded his third victory even though he was nicked for homers by Chuck Harmon and Wally Post.

Indians Beat Yankees

Cleveland remained two games in front of the American league race with a 9-6 victory over the Yankees.

Don Mossi's hitless relief pitching after he entered the game in the eighth inning saved Bob Lemon's sixth victory. Lemon allowed nine hits but was supported by a 14-hit attack that included homers by Bobby Avila and Dave Pope.

Home runs by Jim Rivera, Chico Carrasquel and George Kell brought the White Sox from behind to a 4-2 victory over the Red Sox. Tom Brewer held Chicago scoreless until Rivera homered in the seventh. Relief pitcher Harry Dorish was the winner after relieving Bob Keegan in the sixth.

An eight-run rally in the sixth, touched off by Gus Triandos' homer off loser Lou Slaughter, gave the Orioles an 11-1 decision over the Athletics, who suffered their fifth straight setback. Slaughter was doing well until the sixth when he left following Triandos' homer, a walk and two more hits that filled the bases. Harry Byrd was the winner although relieved by Ray Moore.

Bob Porterfield needed help, too, but was credited with his fourth victory in Washington's 7-4 triumph over Detroit. The Senators struck for four runs in the second and clinched the game with another pair in the sixth.

Suspend Boxing In Pennsylvania; Order Clean-Up

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Given an ultimatum to clean up boxing or shut it down for good in Pennsylvania, the State Athletic Commission and local police began separate investigation today into the "doping" of light heavyweight Harold Johnson before his television fight last Friday.

Gov. George M. Leader, angered over the "horrible circumstances" of Johnson's collapse after two rounds of his fight with Julio Mederos, suspended professional boxing for 90 days within the state, exempting only five bouts which previously had been scheduled.

The governor stated in Harrisburg that not only was it established "without a doubt" that Johnson had been drugged from a doped orange given him before the bout by a total stranger who asked for his autograph, but his handlers "deliberately withheld the knowledge from ring commissioners."

High Time For Inquiry
If there are individuals or groups of individuals involved in boxing who would not hesitate to endanger human life for whatever nefarious purpose they might have in mind, it is indeed high time to have a most searching investigation of the entire sport," Leader said.

Johnson, who easily outpointed Mederos in a previous bout, lost the rematch on a technical knockout when he collapsed on his ring stool at the end of the second round. He told the commission that a stranger asked him for an autograph on the street before the fight and gave him an orange which "tasted bitter." He has been under police guard at Hahnemann Hospital since the bout.

While the commission will open hearings into all aspects of the bout next Friday, city police Inspector John F. Driscoll planned to question Johnson's owners, manager and handlers at city hall today.

Fluctuating Gambling Odds
Driscoll said he wanted to investigate fluctuating gambling odds and "other mysterious circumstances" surrounding the bout.

"I'm not at all satisfied with the explanations, and the betting odds on the fight reflect my doubts," Driscoll said.

"In his first bout with Mederos, Johnson won 9 out of 10 rounds," the inspector said. "In this fight he had just come in fresh from knocking out another contender. Yet the betting odds on Johnson started at 9-2 and dropped all the way down to even money. Even there, at even money, the bookies wouldn't take any bets."

Driscoll said he planned to quiz Pete Moran, who has an interest in Johnson; Tommy Loughrey, the fighter's manager; and Skinny Davidson, Joe Rowland and Lou Gross, Johnson's seconds. He said he would talk to everyone who was in Johnson's dressing room prior to the bout.

Tommy Burns, Ex-Heavyweight Champion, Dies

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Tommy Burns, the only Canadian to hold the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, died here Tuesday at the age of 74.

Burns, whose real name was Noah Brusso, held the world's title from 1906 until 1908 when he lost the championship to Jack Johnson after successfully defending his title 11 times.

The famous Canadian fighter was ordained a minister in Coalinga, Calif., on Christmas Day, 1948, and made his home there. He was there on a visit when he collapsed and died at the Vancouver General Hospital.

Burns was born in Hanover, Ontario, and was the idol of Canada during the two years he held the championship.

He won the title, which had been vacated by Jim Jeffries, by defeating Marvin Hart in a bloody 20 round bout in Los Angeles, Feb. 23, 1906.

Although not considered among the greatest nor most colorful of the heavyweight champions, Burns took part in at least one outstanding fight.

On March 28, 1905, only about a month after he won the championship, Burns made a double-header defense of his crown in San Diego. He took on Jim O'Brien and Jim Walker on the same night and knocked them each out in the first round.

He lost the title to Johnson in a 14 round fight in Sidney Dec. 26, 1908 in a fight that was stopped by the police.

Ted Williams To Rejoin Red Sox Friday

BOSTON —(AP)— General Manager Joe Cronin announced today that slugger Ted Williams will rejoin the Boston Red Sox here Friday.

Cronin said Williams telephoned from Miami to say he was flying to Boston and would be available to play against the Kansas City Athletics Friday.

The call took place while a Florida circuit judge was considering a financial settlement for Mrs. Williams who divorced the Boston slugger this week.

There was no indication that Williams would be given an immediate starting assignment with the hit-starved Sox.

Cronin said details would be worked out upon Williams' arrival here.

It was expected that Williams would be used primarily in a pinch-hitter role until Manager Mike Higgins is satisfied the slugger is in playing condition.

Williams was reported to be "in top condition" from a Florida workout. However, his major diversion has been fishing.

Williams announced more than a year ago that the 1954 season was his last in baseball. He held on to this contention through spring training this year.

It was generally understood, however, that it was Williams' marital difficulties that was keeping the lanky hitter from rejoining the Red Sox.

Illinois House Moves Close to Record on Bills

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois House today moved closer to its 1951 record of 1,258 bills introduced, after topping the 1953 total of 1,004.

House bill 1,019 was introduced Tuesday, with another batch scheduled for introduction today. The Senate total Tuesday was 653, still below the 1953 record of 661 and considerably below the 786 mark reached in 1951.

Among the bills dropped in legislative hoppers Tuesday was a proposal to establish a police training institute at the University of Illinois for state and local policemen.

Others would:
Give the Illinois Youth Commission the responsibility for the sentencing of convicted youths—boys under 17 and girls under 18.

Require all trucks and buses to obtain safety certificates.

Provide for the licensing of all boats under 65 feet by the Conservation Department.

Change the name of Armistice Day to Veterans Day.

Appropriate $117,400 to remodel and enlarge the House chamber.

Permit cities to regulate lodging and rooming houses with accommodations for four or more persons.

Eliminate compulsory retirement of state employees at age 70.

Require justices of the peace to file monthly reports with their state's attorneys.

Establish a Class B liquor license for package stores selling alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption only.

Set the salary of the assistant county superintendent of schools at three-fifths of the superintendent's salary in counties of more than 20,000 population and with more than six school districts.

State Geological Survey Reports on Uranium Research

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—The State Geological Survey today reported to the State Board of Natural Resources and Conservation on its research program dealing with possibility of uranium in Illinois.

The report was made by Dr. John C. Frye, chief of the geological survey, who said "current interests run high on the possibility of uranium in Illinois."

J. E. Lemar, geologist with the survey at Urbana, said the research project is proceeding in two general areas:

1. In Hardin County with particular reference to the Hicks Dome area, where there were claims of uranium traces in sandstone recently.

2. In the coal mining area—mostly in southern Illinois—where black shales are in evidence.

Lemar said the black shales are known to be somewhat radioactive and "we feel they merit investigation so we will know their potential as a source of radioactive material."

Lemar said the survey has gathered samples from Hardin County and also from southern Illinois coal mining areas and these samples are under test in Urbana laboratories.

He said the survey might have results on tests of Hardin County samples in a month but the report on the shales would take longer.

Egyptian Ass'n for Mental Retarded to Meet at Mt. Vernon

The Saline county Association for Mentally Retarded Children has received an announcement from Charles DeWitt, president of the Jefferson county association, of a meeting of the Egyptian Association for Mentally Retarded Children to be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Central Church of Christ auditorium on North Tenth street in Mt. Vernon.

This organization, which consists of 31 southern counties has been formed for the purpose of assisting in the improvement of education and to learn more about the retarded child.

The principal speaker will be Miss Irene Parrotte, from the state school in Lincoln. She has been connected with Lincoln school for the past 30 years and since the year of 1933 has been principal.

A pioneer worker in the field of mental retardation, she has written many articles in mental deficiency which have been published in the journal of American associations and American Medical Association's journals. For her contribution she has been listed in Who's Who.

The Jefferson county parent group which will be host to the Egyptian association cordially extends an invitation to persons interested in furthering the education and possibilities of these children to be present.

Liberace's Mother Dismisses Petition To Change Name

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Liberace's mother, Mrs. Frances Casadonte, 62, Tuesday dismissed her petition to change her surname back to that of her piano-playing son.

Mrs. Casadonte divorced the television star's father, Samuel Liberace, a retired French horn player from Madison, Wis., in 1941, and two years later married Alexander Casadonte, who died 10 years ago.

The elder Liberace sent his attorney, Glen Henry, Madison, here two months ago to protest the petition. At that time, Superior Judge Arnold Praeger indefinitely postponed a hearing on the petition when Mrs. Casadonte's attorneys reported she was ill.

29 U. S. Firms Top Billion Dollars in Sales

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-nine American companies each sold a billion dollars or more worth of goods and services in 1954, a United Press survey showed today. The number was four fewer than in 1953.

Last year's business recession pushed six firms out of the billion-dollar class. But two other companies succeeded in climbing into the billionaire class despite the general downturn.

A year ago the exclusive list numbered 33 concerns.

The 29 giants rang up total sales of more than $65,000,000,000 in 1954, or almost $400 for each man, woman and child in the United States.

In 1953 these same companies sold more than $67,000,000,000 worth of products ranging from hairpins and lamb chops to autos and jet bombers.

The six casualties last year were International Harvester Co., Republic Steel Corp., Pennsylvania Railroad, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Union Carbide & Carbon Co., and Humble Oil Co.

Sinclair Oil Corp. and Boeing Airplane Co. joined the list last year for the first time. Boeing became the second aircraft manufacturer ever to hit $1,000,000,000 in sales. Douglas Aircraft Co. did it in 1944—a war year—but never has repeated the performance.

General Motors Corp., the world's largest auto maker, led the list again in 1954 with sales of $9,823,526,291. Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) was next with $5,805,722,967. Sinclair brought up the rear with sales of $1,021,461,419.

Real Estate Changes Listed By Erton Brokers

May brings about "Moving Day" for more than a half dozen families in and near Harrisburg, whose properties have been sold or exchanged through the Erton Real Estate office within the past few weeks.

Mrs. J. A. Douglas has bought the George Holland home in this city and her place has been sold to Homer Ramsey. The Hollands are moving to their farm.

Coming into town also from the country is W. S. Edwards, who has bought the property at 1115 West Largent, owned by O. E. So-ward Jr.

Oval E. Lewis, Galatia, is also moving to Harrisburg to the property at 15 West Midkiff, sold by Ertons for Mrs. Dorothy Lee Spencer, Western Union operator, who has bought the Pearce Irvin home, 718 South McKinley, which she and her family will occupy soon. The Irvins are living in Rosiclare, where he operates an automobile agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee DeNeale, who have been living at 304 East Poplar street, have bought the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stewart, 800 South Main, which they will occupy very soon.

Already at home in their newly acquired property are Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Patterson, who bought the residence of the late Mrs. Jennie Rogers, 111 South Granger street, just north of which a vacant lot owned by the Rogers heirs and sold by Ertons to Guy Price will soon be occupied by a new home in process of building by the Prices.

Bob Hope now calls Godfrey's show: "Arthur Godfrey and his Survivors."

MGM's "The Cobweb" is all about what happens in a mental sanitarium when one of the psychiatrists decides that the drapes need changing. One comment heard after a sneak preview: "Why didn't MGM simplify the whole thing and put in Venetian blinds?"

Short Takes: MGM and CBS-TV are talking about a big home screen movie deal. . . . Jean Hagen is No. 1 in the race for the role of Hank Williams' wife in the biography of the late western singer.

Rural Mail Boxes in County Show Owners' Originality

Stress Beautifying Boxes During Rural Mail Box Improvement Week, May 15-21

By ALTA PORTER
This article might be titled "Operations Mail Box" for it was inspired by oddities in rural mail boxes and their supports. May 15 through 21 has been officially and permanently designated by the Post Office department as Rural Mail Box Improvement week.

Here are a few pointers for RMI week:
1. See that posts are securely erected—are not leaning badly—and that box is fastened securely.
2. Replace obsolete box if it is hard to get mail into it, or if it is hard to see into it for letter that you want mailed.

3. Name should be painted on side of box which carrier approaches (or can be on front of box if several boxes are closely grouped together).
4. It is a big help if several boxes are neatly and closely placed on a plank extending between two posts.

5. Bottom of box should be 42 inches above roadway, and should be on an arm extending out away from the post, in such a manner that it can be easily reached, with all obstructions (including snow and parked cars) promptly removed.

6. Fill ruts with crushed rock or broken brick or cement.

Try Out Own Box
7. Drive your own car up to your box. If you can easily reach your mail from behind the wheel of your car, reaching out the right hand side as the carrier is required to do, then the chances are that your box is pretty well located. But better yet, talk to your carrier about the proper location, and the correct setting.

8. Your carrier serves this box 305 days every year. If it is correctly set, it lightens his work and saves him time so that he can more quickly serve other patrons farther along his route (and saving his time can save the Government money).

9. This will be appreciated, for with the rapid development of housing on acreages, the work load of most rural carrier has more than doubled in the past few years.
10. Your mailbox is the front door to your home. Since it is usually in front of your home, its neat appearance will add considerably to the neat appearance of your home. Ruts filled—box and post painted white—possibly a few flowers planted behind it.

There are 3,996 rural mail boxes either on routes in Saline county or on routes that extend into Saline county in the vicinity of Stonefort and Thompsonville.

Local Carriers
On the four rural routes and one star route out of Harrisburg there are 1375 box holders. Four hundred and twenty-one of these are on Route 1, which is served by Leo Davis as carrier. Rt. 2, has 396 boxes and is served by Mary Lois Bynum; Rt. 3 is served by William Land, and has 286 boxes and Rt. 4 is served by Alonzo Shevmake with 211 boxes.

Eldorado has 900 boxes on two rural routes.
Galatia has 416 boxes on three rural routes.
Carrier Mills has 296 boxes on two routes.
Raleigh has 150 boxes on one route. Stonefort has 270 boxes on two routes and Thompsonville has 610 boxes on four rural routes.

Most of these boxes show that little attention is given to them. There is no standard pattern of mounting them, which is not too bad, but many are drooping hanging their heads in shame, instead of being sturdily mounted as though "looking the whole world in the face."

Posts and other supports are shabby and unpainted in some instances. High weeds are permitted to grow up around them in many cases.
Pride in Ownership.
But the worst feature is that there is no name on many of them. A man's name is the most important thing he owns. He should be proud of it and he should want all who pass along the highway to know that here is where he lives.
Pride in ownership is shown, however, on every route, and new evidence of this pride is indicated by the variety of boxes whose owners want their mail receptacle to be individual and different.
There are some very fancy mail boxes with metal curlicues ornamenting them in front of some of the rural homes of Saline county.
A fad that has spread rapidly is the welded chain support, and it can be found in every shape from a question mark to a zig-zag streak, as will be noticed from the accompanying pictures.
Uncle Sam mail-box supports, made with plywood were numerous before the heavy windstorm of 1953, which blew many of them down. Some are still standing, as will be seen by the accompanying pictures.
The covered wagon drawn by oxen is a theme artistically employed, and the box on a coiled spring of heavy wire is another oddity.
On the Bob Miley farm near Galatia the mail box is a miniature gabled house, with a door into which the mail is thrust.
There may be many more that have not come to the attention of the writer. The illustrations merely show that a little originality and pride can make a rural mail box stand out from it; less interesting counterpart, making it easier for the letter carrier and anyone else trying to locate a particular farm family to do so.
It is an odd fact that over a period of 50 years during which there was free delivery in Saline county nothing much was done about improving the looks of mail boxes until recent years. Rural delivery in Saline county commenced in 1848, when a 28 mile star route operated between Equality and Bankston through Harrisburg, made the delivery of mail once a week.
While T. S. Reynolds, who served as postmaster from 1897 to 1913 was in office Rural Free delivery daily was inaugurated, and three routes were serviced, the pioneer rural letter carriers being Ewing B. Gaskins, Wilburn H. Ingram and Charles C. Wilgus, according to the records consulted by Postmaster A. M. Hetherington.

LETTER CARRIERS FOR HARRISBURG RURAL ROUTES—These are the letter carriers serving four rural routes out of Harrisburg in Saline county: (left to right) Leo Davis, Rt. 1, Mary Lois Bynum, Rt. 2, William Land, Rt. 3, and Alonzo Shevmake Jr., Rt. 4.

WCS Sponsors Crosley Cooking School To Be Held at Wesley Center, May 24-25

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church is announcing today a Crosley Cooking School to be held May 24th and 25th in Wesley Center, the new educational building.

The school is being made possible through the cooperation of Craggs-DeVillie Furniture store, Harrisburg and Eldorado, and the O'Keefe Lumber Company, Carrier Mills, dealers in Crosley appliances, with Joseph G. Gaul, general sales manager from the O'Keefe distributing company, serving as program coordinator.

Mrs. V. V. Brown is serving as chairman for the Society.
The Woman's Society throughout the years has played an important role in the work of the church with its members contributing generously their time and talents to aid the church both financially and spiritually. With their dreams of a new sanctuary now a reality the Society is eager to complete the furnishing of the educational building. It is hoped that the cooking school will be well attended.

Mr. Gaul stated that the personnel of the two business firms and the distributing company were happy to add in a material way their congratulations to the church membership on its magnificent achievement in building the new sanctuary and education building. He stressed that all proceeds from the school will go to the Woman's Society and that all expenses of the school are being assumed by the business firms. He added that there will be a number of valuable attendance prizes each day with their dreams of a new sanctuary range given as the grand prize. The list of prizes will be announced later.

Miss Frances Johnson, regional home economist for the Crosley-Bendix Home Appliance Division of the Aeco Manufacturing Corporation, will conduct the school. Miss Johnson, a graduate of the University of Michigan, has traveled extensively, since her affiliation with Crosley, presenting cooking schools throughout the mid-west, including Chicago, Detroit and other large metropolitan areas. Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained from any member of

Army to Begin Rotation System Of Entire Divisions

The first transfer of entire divisions in the United States Army will take place this summer. This new rotation system, a radical departure from the individual replacement system in the United States Army, is called "Operation Gyroscope." The 10th Infantry Division, Fort Riley, Kansas, will replace the 1st (Big Red One) Infantry Division that is now stationed in Germany.

This means that the opportunities for preferred assignments and future advancements await those who take immediate advantage of this chance to join the 10th.

This further means that the enlistee or reenlistee who joins the 10th will know that he will be stationed in Germany and will return to Fort Riley after his overseas tour.

The build up of the 10th Division and the replacement by divisions means that a young man can now enlist in a specific Army unit and know beforehand exactly where he will be stationed.

This new policy is ending the long common inconvenience in the Army of not knowing where one will be stationed and what type of work one will be doing.

Complete information on the United States Army's "Operation Gyroscope" is available from the United States Army's recruiting representative, Sgt. George K. Freedle, at the courthouse, Harrisburg.

Appetites of Motoring Americans Keep Pace with Stepped Up Travel

By ROBERT SALMON
United Press Staff Correspondent
BOSTON — When Americans step on the gas, they step up their appetites.

The American motorist is eating more and more along roads both near his home and in far-off places, reports one of the nation's largest dining chains. And unlike the city commuter, the breakfast order is a hearty one—no quick cup of coffee and doughnut for the traveling set.

Because of the modern auto and the vast and growing network of highways and throughways, families don't give a second thought to driving to a favorite spot for a week end, or taking off on two, three or four-week trips. The more people who hit the road, the greater the expanse of food choices.

Dishes once largely regional now have universal appeal except for squash pie, Victor Nelson, spokesman for the Howard Johnson restaurants which last year served more than 250,000,000 persons, said that only a New Englander will order squash pie. Elsewhere, it has to be called "pumpkin."

New England clam chowder, once a fairly localized dish, now is a favorite of travelers from New York to California.

Conversely, fried shrimp has made a hit with New Englanders. A few years ago, it was strictly a Gulf Coast delicacy.

But one thing hasn't changed. Turkey is still traveling America's favorite Sunday meal.

And, as in the horse and buggy days, the traveler tightens up on the purse strings the rest of the week when the favorite foods are frankfurters and beans, chicken pie or veal cutlets. But come Sunday, motorists splurge on turkey or steak.

"Ice cream is the leading dessert," Nelson said. "Vanilla, strawberry and chocolate, in that order, are the favorite flavors."

Howard Johnson restaurants sell more fried clam plates than any other single food item. The hamburger runs a close second, with the frankfurter third.

Nearly 400 Johnson restaurants serve traveling America along the Atlantic Coast and as far west as Texas and Oklahoma. Another 55 will be in operation by July.

Incidentally, the kids account for much of the chain's food sales. So it keeps assorted high chairs, bottle warmers, strained foods and bottle warmers on hand.

What's the favorite meal among the younger set?

"Hamburger, mashed potatoes and ice cream," said Nelson.

Truck Drivers Give Safety Advice

DETROIT — Here are five basic rules for good driving compiled by professional truck drivers which will help a motorist avoid accidents:

1. Whatever the driving conditions, ease off the gas sooner. Try for that easy "pro" touch, with a minimum use of your brakes.

2. Approach intersections, traffic lights, and dangerous stops with your foot off the throttle and on the brake. Be ready to hit the brake at once if necessary.

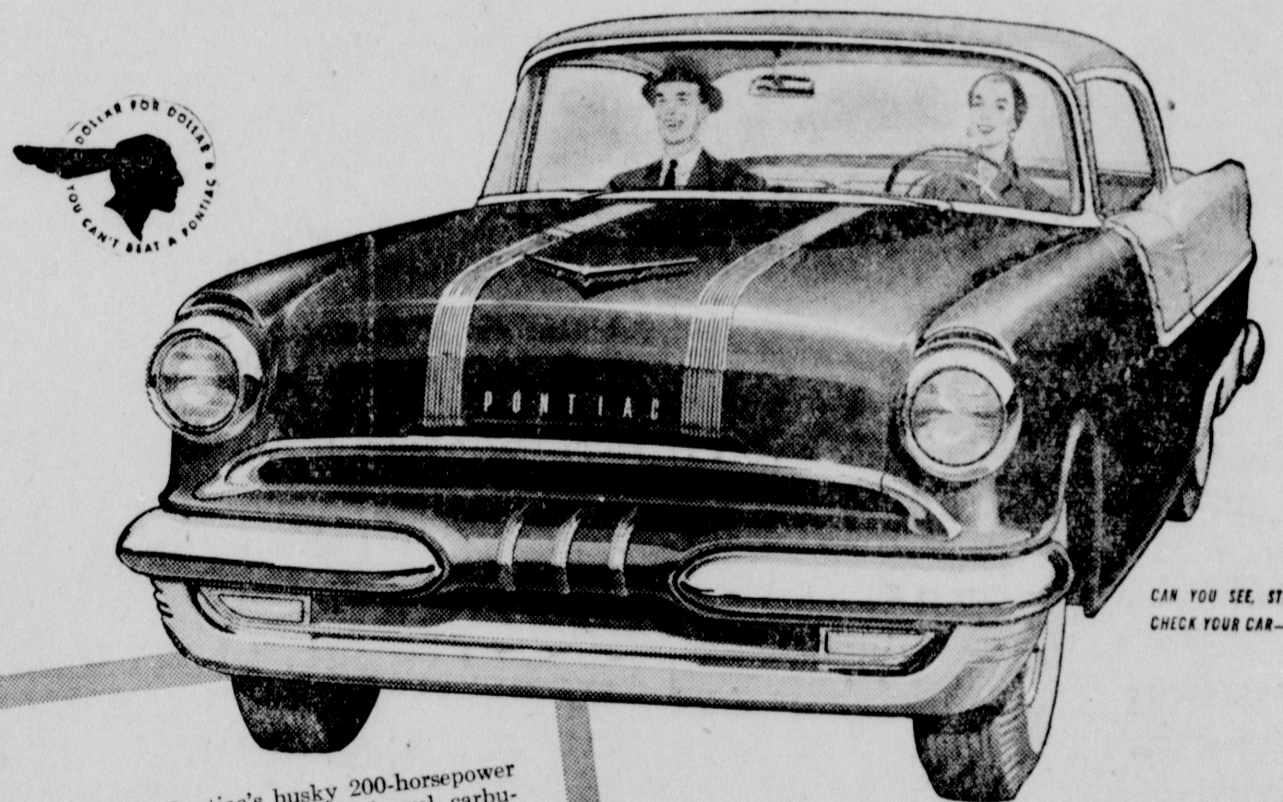

3. Increase the distance in which you follow cars.

4. Yield the right of way to all other vehicles and all pedestrians.

5. Plan your passing. Stay far enough behind to see approaching traffic, without nosing into the oncoming line. Pick up speed before passing.

More Fine-Car Features than any other car priced so low!

POWER—Pontiac's husky 200-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8 with four-barrel carburetor, optional at low extra cost, delivers more power than any car within hundreds of dollars of its price. And road records show this power is teamed with the greatest economy in Pontiac history.

STYLE—No car at any price is so beautifully distinctive. Pontiac's future-fueled Twin-Streak styling and Vogue Two-Toning set it apart from all other cars—point the way to tomorrow.

SIZE—Pontiac is a big car where it counts—with a long, road-hugging 122" or 124" wheelbase. On any road, at any speed, you enjoy the feeling of genuine fine-car size.

COMFORT—Pontiac's extra size means big-car comfort—room to stretch out and relax. Wide-stance rear springs and Shock-Proof chassis float you along in luxury style.

If you were to guess Pontiac's price on the basis of its style, performance and size, you'd surely guess hundreds of dollars higher than its actual cost. Pontiac measures up with the finest on any point of comparison—except price.

It's a simple matter of fact that you can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!

After a close inspection of Pontiac's luxury and quality and a few miles commanding its mighty 200-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8, buyers from both ends of the price scale are switching to Pontiac in record-breaking numbers. Come in soon for the clinching facts and figures. You'll make the very pleasant discovery that if you can afford any new car, you can afford a big, powerful Pontiac—and step directly into the fine-car class!

Otterville

John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

It seldom has been recorded that a former slave erected a monument to the memory of the one who had held him in bondage. Re- corded burial of slaves and their former masters in the same crypt are likewise unusual. How- ever infrequently such occurrences may appear, both occurred in the small village of Otterville, a few miles southwest of Jerseyville (Il- linois).

The master in this case was Dr. Silas Hamilton, a native of Tin- mouth, Vermont. Dr. Hamilton was vigorously opposed to slavery but felt that its abolishment would be a long and difficult process. He, therefore, decided that in the meantime he could best promote the welfare of slaves by operating a model plantation in the "Black Belt", a plantation where slaves were to be treated with the utmost kindness and consideration. He accordingly bought a plantation in Adams County, Mississippi, stock- ed it with slaves and began his ex- periment.

Hamilton's adventure, appar- ently successful within itself, did not induce the practices he had hoped for on other plantations in the area. He therefore sold his plan- tation, freed his slaves and emi- grated to Illinois. Three of his former slaves accompanied the doctor to Illinois. These three were a Negro man and his wife, house- servants, and a boy named George. It was this boy, George, who is the other principal in this story.

Child Arouses Sympathy

George had first come to Dr. Hamilton's attention when the lat- ter, on the way to his plantation in Mississippi, was travelling through Virginia in a wagon.

Stopping at a plantation belong- ing to a family named Washing- ton, a short way from the city of Washington, the doctor heard the continuous crying of a child, ap- parently in great distress. Think- ing that the child was physically ill and in need of a physician's services, Dr. Hamilton made in- quiry. He learned that George's mother had recently been sold to a slave buyer and had been taken south, also that it was feared that the child was grieving himself to death.

The evident distress of the child aroused the sympathies of the doc- tor. He accordingly approached the owner of the plantation and of- fered to buy the boy. The owner, convinced that this bit of property would certainly grieve himself to death, sold George to Dr. Hamilton for $100. The boy, when he learn- ed that he was to be taken south and that he might possibly find his mother, became somewhat recon- ciled. George was carried to the Hamilton plantation in Missis- sippi. He proved to be an excep- tionally intelligent, trustworthy and capable boy.

Doctor Dies in 1934

When Dr. Hamilton came to Illi- nois, he first stopped in the New Design settlement in Monroe county. After thoroughly explor- ing several other sections of the state, a site on Otter Creek prairie was selected. Here Dr. Hamilton, with the Negro man and his wife and George lived until the death of the doctor in 1834.

At his death Dr. Hamilton be- queathed $4,000 for the establish- ment and support of a school in Otterville, to serve a territory four miles square. This school, built of stone in 1835, became widely known as the "Stone School House." It is said to be the first "free" public school in Illinois. Since there was no color barrier at this school, George attended it and obtained good common school education.

Upon attaining manhood, George, "Black George" or George Washington became a farmer. Throughout the years he was successful. He became a member of the Baptist church, serving many years as its care- taker, and as Sunday school teach- er and song leader. He also serv- ed as grave digger for the com- munity, refusing pay for such services. Traditions still relate many incidents concerning his many acts of kindness.

Leaves Money for Monument

People over a wide area came to know and respect George. Ar- rested in Calhoun county where there was considerable anti-Negro feeling, he was lodged in jail and held as a runaway slave. A busi- ness man who knew George secured his release. At another time some boys set about ston- ing him when he came to the county. On this occasion the coun- ty judge came to his rescue.

At his death in 1864, George left $1500 for the erection of a monument to the memory of his former master, Dr. Hamilton. This monument on the grounds of "The Old Stone School" was dedi- cated on May 22, 1876, the birth- date of Jason Humiston, now the oldest native resident of the vil- lage. The scroll on the shaft above the base block records the fact that the memorial was "Erected by George Washington Born in Virginia a Slave Died at Otterville, Ill., April 15, 1864

A Christian Freeman"

The base block of the memorial continues the inscription: "To the memory of Dr. Silas Hamilton His Former Master Born in Tinnmouth, Vt., May 19, 1775 Died at Otterville, Ill., Nov. 19,

1834 Having in his lifetime given freedom to Twenty-eight slaves

At his death bequeathed four thou- sand dollars for the erection and endowment of the Hamilton Prim- ary School."

George also left $7,000 as a fund to be used for the education of "colored persons, or Americans of African descent." This fund still functions for its original purpose.

Each Memorial Day a group of Negroes come to Otterville to pay tribute to the memory of George. Ninety years after his death local lore recounts the story of Dr. Silas Hamilton and George.

Reject Pay Boost For Game Wardens

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois Senate today turned down a salary boost for game wardens and con- servation supervisors.

Sen. Marvin F. Burt (R-Free- port) offered an amendment to the Department of Conservation's ap- propriation bill to boost the pay of 131 game wardens from $262 a month to $300 a month.

His amendment also would have raised salaries of game wardens' supervisors from $315 to $350. He said the cost would not exceed $75,000 for two years.

But Sens. Arthur J. Bidwill (R-River Forest) and Everett R. Pe- ters (St. Joseph) spoke against the salary raise because it was not in the budget approved by Gov. William G. Stratton and the State Budgetary Commission.

Burt's amendment was beaten 24-17.

Print Dresses for Summer are Neat

PRINTS, SMALL AND NEAT and in sophisticated colorings, are used by top designers this year for everything from suits to dresses for late day wear. Prints, this year, are meant to be accessorized in line with the predominant color in the print. But the difference is that these prints are not gaudy and consequently, the accessories that serve them can serve other clothes in a wardrobe. Neat silk costume by Hannah Troy (left) has beige background printed with navy raindrops. Dress underneath jacket has molded bodice, squared neckline edged in navy velvet. Velvet trim is repeated on the jacket. Full-skirted white shantung late day dress by this same designer is printed (right) with flowers in royal blue. Waistline is banded in royal blue velvet, with streamers reaching to hemline in back.

Sheriffs Asked to Co-Operate with Speed Control Plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—In accordance with "Slow Down and Live" representatives of the Illinois Traffic Safety Council are asking all sheriffs in Illinois for their co-operation in the nation-wide highway speed control program.

At the 46th annual Governor's Conference last year, "Slow Down and Live" was unanimously endorsed by a joint declaration of the 48 governors designating this as the official traffic safety program for the United States during 1955.

The program will be active from 6 p. m. May 27 to midnight September 5 (Labor Day). During these 101 days, law enforcement and publicity will be directed at excessive speed, speed too fast for conditions, improper passing, following too closely, and failure to yield right-of-way.

"Proclamations have been sent to all sheriffs, mayors and village presidents, asking them to proclaim this period as 'Slow Down and Live.' During this time all enforcement personnel will be alerted to the tremendous task of furnishing the necessary protection to the traveling public," according to Harvey J. Dowling, Illinois safety co-ordinator.

"During this same period last year, Illinois had a total of 582 deaths—third highest in the nation. I am sure that with the cooperation of every citizen in Illinois this year the toll can be greatly reduced," Dowling said.

Nevada was the 36th state admitted to the union.

His Disciples Class Has Mother-Daughter Banquet

His Disciples class of the Dorrisville Social Brethren church held its annual Mother-Daughter banquet Friday, May 6, in the lower room of the church.

The meal was served in candlelight from a table beautifully decorated with spring flowers. The main dish was fried chicken.

Mrs. Dewey Durfee, president of the class, presented the teacher, Mrs. Cordelia York, with a lovely corsage, and Mrs. York in turn read a poem entitled "Blossoms" in which she compared the blossoms to mothers. Mrs. Lucille Pankey presented each guest with a corsage. Mrs. Tommy Guest, wife of the pastor, received a corsage from the class in appreciation for her services.

Thanks was offered by Mrs. Viola Rose.

The group then adjourned upstairs for an informal "television show." Mrs. Harold Gulley was in charge of the entertainment. A short skit, "Rolling Pin Brigade," was presented by Mrs. Cordelia York, Mrs. Perry Austin, Mrs. Dewey Durfee, Mrs. Dewey Gidcomb, and Mrs. Thurman Gulley.

Mrs. Mable Aldridge gave a short reading entitled "My First Trip to the Butcher Shop" after which Mrs. Pankey gave a commercial. A mother and daughter duet was sung by Mrs. Gidcomb and Mrs. Durfee. Mrs. Kenneth Huftedler gave a reading entitled "Galvanized Washing Tub." Mrs. Tommy Guest and Mrs. Gulley sang "My Desire" after which the group sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Guests present were Mrs. Martha Murphy, Mrs. Ellis Gulley, Mrs. Ray Howard, Mrs. Hollie Stout, Mrs. Dave Evans, Mrs. Joe Tucker, Mrs. Lon Vaughn, Mrs. Viola Rose, Mrs. Pearl Aldridge and Mrs. Hubert Simpson.

Members were Mrs. Cordelia York, Mrs. Thurman Gulley, Mrs. Dewey Durfee, Mrs. Perry Austin, Mrs. Tommy Guest, Mrs. Kenneth Huftedler, Mrs. Lucille Pankey, Mrs. Dewey Gidcomb, Mrs. Mabel Aldridge and Mrs. Harold Gulley.

Avon Representatives Plan District Meeting

At a district meeting of Avon representatives held recently at the Harrisburg Motor hotel a break-

Native customs in the homes, the schools and the churches of that area of Africa will be shown and Martha Beckwith, a native African girl, who is a student in this city at present, will be there to give her personal testimony of the work being done among her people. Everyone is invited to attend.

Comedy of Errors Mars Official's Visit

The effort of Junior Chamber of Commerce leaders to give Buckner the red carpet treatment, turned into a comedy of embarrassing errors.

Thomas O'Brien and William Wolfe were to meet Buckner's plane at 11:30 p. m. At 10:15 they telephoned the airport to see if it was on time. The plane had already arrived. They were still apologizing to Buckner on the drive back to town when a tire went flat.

When Buckner finally reached his hotel, he indicated he was going straight to bed. Then they discovered the reservation had been made for the wrong night and the hotel was filled. A room for Buckner was found in another hotel.

The next day, when Buckner started to read his speech at a Jaycee board meeting, he was interrupted by a loud crash.

A huge sign in back of him, reading "WELCOME BUCK," had fallen off the wall.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Before your car develops a pronounced case of "spring fever," it would be a good idea to give it its spring tonic in the way of a complete checkup.

Winter conditions, even during a mild winter, are hard on a car and can cause small defects to become aggravated to the point where they are real dangers. With weather conditions improving steadily, you will probably be using your car more and will be driving at higher rates of speed than you would risk in winter.

Don't take the chance of getting involved in a collision because of some mechanical failure in your car. There are enough other dangers on the road. Be sure the braking and steering mechanisms are in good condition, that the points and plugs are up to par so the motor won't stall at a crucial moment, that the tires haven't worn so much a blowout might occur, and that such other equipment as lights and windshield wiper are in good working order. With worries about those things off your mind, you can do a better job of concentrating on traffic.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.
